

FROM ALTERNATIVE EDUCATION STUDENT TO ADMINISTRATOR

Dr. Woodley was a teen mom, an alternative school student who turn her pain into purpose and dedicated her life to working with at promise students and school transformation initiatives. Her educational background includes a specialist degree in educational leadership and a doctorate degree in Counseling Psychology. She has been a teacher, school counselor, school improvement specialist, assistant principal, principal and assistant superintendent. Since 2008, she has worked as a turnaround leader helping to bring about positive changes in some of the lowest performing schools in Georgia and Missouri. Today she travels around the world working with organizations to help ignite, motivate and encourage transformation in “at promise” communities worldwide!
